Southern Food Brokers, a retail perishable food broker in the Southeast, chose an American Buildings pre-engineered metal building to aid their goal of creating a modern office that highlights the growth of their company and is easy to maintain. The 9,208 sf building displays a juxtaposition of contemporary lines, a single slope roof with eave-high overhangs, and a 1:12 roof pitch against the combination of added rock and brick on the exterior delivering a rustic feel, a style fitting to the views of the countryside.
